kolkhoz workers processing the grain do not fulfill the norms and do a poor job of cleaning. Panasko, the kolkhoz's director, is not able to organize the processing and drying of grain efficiently and the work of the combines is disrupted. As a result, the servicing MTS was obliged to remove one combine from the "Bol'shevik" kolkhoz to a neighboring kolkhoz.

Local soviet organs and, in part, the village soviets do not properly supervise harvesting work and the delivery of grain. Workers of the soviets only note facts of nonfulfilled schedules and do not take any active measures for correcting shortcomings. The Mininsk village soviet is especially inept in its direction of harvesting work. Aksenov, director of the village political committee, is rarely in the kolkhoz, and when he does come, it is only to rebuke the rayon political committees. In the Kazach'ye-Mysskiy village soviet, harvesting and grain procurement is also poorly directed. Over 15,000 puds of threshed grain have been accumulated at the kolkhoz, since the one grain drier which serves three kolkhozes cannot dry all the grain. Only now has construction begun on new driers for kolkhozes in this soviet.
